ZOO'S GUIDE TO ALL YOU NEED TO KNOW

LAUGH AT THIS WEEK!

CHLOE GOODMAN EXCLUSIVE!

"CBB? They cut the X-rated bits!"

Ahead of the new series of Celebrity Big Brother, former housemate Chloe Goodman chats to ZOO – and sends temperatures soaring in Majorca!

With another series of the Orwellian-inspired reality show set to grace TV screens this week, we're gifting you one busty blast from the past in our Celebrity Big Brother Uncensored issue.

The lovely Chloe Goodman – who was foolishly given the boot by viewers in the first week of the last series in January – told ZOO what life in the house is really like and who she wants to see on CBB 16.

"There's so much X-rated stuff that happens which they don't show!" explained gorgeous Goodman. "I'd love them to get Ex On The Beach's Megan McKenna in the house. She's an absolute worldie. I tweet her so much, she must think I'm a lesbian!"

The Brighton beauty, indulging in good, clean fun poolside as our British summer draws to a close, had more to add. ➔

“Summer makes me feel really sexy. I mean, who doesn’t feel a bit more passionate on holiday?” And she doesn’t stop there.

“Sand and sex have never been a great mix: I prefer the intimacy of a five-star hotel room and clean white sheets.”

If that’s not a good enough reason to check down the back of the sofa for spare change, then we don’t know what is. Just make sure you rearrange those cushions in time to see which hot celebrities will be hitting the hot tub in the new CBB series this time around!

AARON PAUL TALKS TO ZOO

"People still want me to call them b**ch!"

Hollywood star Aaron Paul chats to ZOO about life after Breaking Bad, tourists outside his house, and his chances of becoming the next Bond...

H EY, AARON! HUGE CONGRATULATIONS ON RELEASING ANOTHER SEASON OF BOJACK HORSEMAN. WE HEARD YOU'RE PRETTY ATTACHED TO IT...

Well I was the first person to sign up because it's certainly not your run-of-the-mill comedy. It's odd and wrong but in the best kinda way. I'm just grateful that Netflix stood behind us and gave it their support.

SO WHAT CAN WE EXPECT IN SEASON TWO?

BoJack's got his career back on track-ish, but he's still a mess while trying to seem perfectly on top of his sh*t! My character Todd is still the same stoner. Living in BoJack's house, eating Pop-Tarts all day and never leaving the couch. He's kind of like the person I secretly want to be like. No one knows it but I'm indulging my inner Aaron.

HOW HAVE YOU COPEDED WITH THE FAME AFTER BREAKING BAD?

Honestly, I like to float around and not be noticed, but I'm my own worst enemy because I'm the kinda guy who'll invite the world out to have a beer. I always want to knock down that wall between celebrity and fans. We're all the same. SPEAKING OF WHICH, DO YOU STILL WELCOME TOUR GROUPS OUTSIDE YOUR HOUSE?

That was a big mistake. We're even thinking of moving now because we just get people who come and wait outside the house for me! I had to politely ask the bus company to stop and they were really cool about it.

WHAT'S IT LIKE WHEN YOU'RE OUT AND ABOUT?

People are constantly asking me to call them "b**ch" – on the street, on social media, it's unrelenting. I even made an app (Yo, b**ch) after someone suggested it. Sounds crazy but it's done inexplicably well!

SO WHAT DID YOU THINK OF BETTER CALL SAUL?

I loved it! I think it was just what the fans needed. They want to see these characters and Saul was such an incredible one and we never got to see deep inside his life.

ANY CHANCE JESSE OR WALT WILL EVER APPEAR IN IT?

If they'd have me it would be great to be back, but honestly, nothing has been said.

WHAT'S THE BEST THING YOU'VE WORKED ON SINCE BREAKING BAD?

Having the chance to work

IT'S AARON'S ROUND

"I'm the kinda guy who'll invite the world for a beer"

Look at this amazing non-spill pint!

with Ridley Scott on Exodus. I mean, c’mon, that’s an incredible experience. Plus most of my stuff was opposite Christian Bale who is so funny to work with.

ARE WE TALKING ABOUT THE SAME CHRISTIAN BALE?

Honest! I was one of the guys who went into that, kinda hesitant, wondering, “What’s he going to be like?” But he’s so misunderstood. He’s a great guy to everybody and he’s literally one of the funniest men I’ve ever met in my life.

WE CAN’T HELP BUT NOTICE YOU’VE BEEN PROMOTING YOURSELF FOR THE STAR WARS SPIN-OFFS PRETTY HEAVILY. WHAT’S GOING ON?

Oh that! Well I have fun on Instagram and social media from time to time. I like to make fun and stir the pot a little. There’s never any legitimacy in it... most of the time.

WE’RE GUESSING YOU’D JUMP AT THE CHANCE TO PLAY THE LIKES OF HAN SOLO IN ONE OF THE SPIN-OFF FILMS?

Are you kidding? It’s like Bond, in fact they’re better than Bond. You can’t turn down a role like that. SO YOU’D CHOOSE HAN SOLO OVER BOND? YOU KNOW THEY’RE REPLACING DANIEL CRAIG SOON...

Me? Bond? Let’s face it, I’m never, ever going to become 007. But those guys, they’re my heroes.

ZOO EXCLUSIVE!

NFL FRIENDLY KICKS OFF... BIG TIME

FRIDAY NIGHT FIGHTS!

We always knew NFL stars were tough, but we didn't realise how violent their training sessions could get!

Americans always have to do things bigger and better than everyone else. In this case that meant turning an honest training session between the NFL's Dallas Cowboys and the St. Louis Rams into a right royal rumble.

It all kicked off not once, but three times during a few routine drills between the Cowboys' defensive line and the Rams' offense. Following a bit of pushing and shoving, it quickly escalated into a full-blown barney, which broke off into multiple scuffles with punches thrown, and eyes gouged, spilling over to the sidelines near the fans.

Bizarrely, fights like these during practice sessions aren't that uncommon, with the Cowboys also involved in another massive fist-fight last year, on that occasion with the Oakland Raiders.

Dallas cornerback Tyler Patmon, who threw the first punch, said after the fight: "All you're thinking about is having your teammate's back – that's all that matters!"

If only the boring and completely pointless England friendlies we're subjected to were anything like these practice sessions. Maybe then we'd get to see the England team show a little more fight...

BREAKING NEWS

Sky Sports' saucy slip-ups!

Reading from an Autocue is not the easiest of skills in the world and last week one Sky Sports News presenter had a day to forget after accidentally saying, "Charlie Austin has no ligaments in his right dick."

An unfortunate slip of the tongue – but it's certainly not the first time Sky Sports presenters have got themselves tongue-tied. But can you spot the real slip-ups from the fakes, below?

Too much protein?
No whey!

Bear being

W.T.F!

The maddest thing we've seen this week!

Un-bear-ably stupid!

These grizzlies are definitely not smarter than the average bear!

It's been a bumper week for bears with low IQs as we spotted not one, not two, but three incredibly stupid carnivores making complete and utter mugs of themselves around the globe.

This flurry of fuzzy fiends has been up to all sorts of hi-jinks: putting their heads through cat flaps, getting trapped inside protein tubs and even romancing a plastic deer in a completely one-sided rumble in someone's back garden.

It's not every day we get to mock these deadly predators, but today we'll just grin and bear it!

Horizon: Zero Dawn

The guys who gave us Killzone return with a brilliant new RPG packed full of action, exploration and mechanical dinosaurs!

We'd imagine the apocalypse is something game designers' dreams are made of, because it allows them to think up an original world.

However, usually they end up with the same barren wasteland where everything's gone to pot.

Now Guerrilla Games – famous for intergalactic cyber-Nazi shooter series Killzone – is taking a different approach, with a greener, brighter and more colourful post-apocalypse.

Horizon: Zero Dawn is an open-world action RPG set thousands of years into the future, following the unexplained fall of civilisation. It's a bold idea, but one the crowds at E3 loved – and it's easy to see why. With its winning combination of stealth, exploration and mental mechanical dinosaurs, it means the apocalypse has never looked as good as this – and we can't wait to see more!

The new Lara Croft

This flame-haired maiden you see here is Aloy, the game's main character and an outcast from her tribe. The adventurous Lara Croft type is very handy with a bow and arrow and was heavily based on Alien's Ellen Ripley and Game Of Thrones' Ygritte.

Horizon: Zero Dawn is out in 2016 on PS4

Very wild life

As you can see, the game's wildlife are mechanical and range from smaller, less deadly herds (below) to big, heavily armed behemoths (above). Taking down these creatures is essential to survival, as you'll need the precious materials they drop to create more weapons for future skirmishes.

Aloy's armoury

From what we saw, you're not armed with some bog standard bow and arrow. Aloy had three types of ammo to utilise - electrical, explosive and armour piercing - as well as a rope gun, which she used to pin down bigger mechs to restrict movement and hit the weak spots.

ZOO reboots

BAYWATCH!

Casting for next year's Baywatch remake is under way – and ZOO's got a few suggestions for the film's lovely lady-lifeguards...

Auditions for the Baywatch movie are moving along nicely, following news Zac Efron is teaming up with The Rock for the R-rated reboot next year.

But who cares about them, anyway? We want to know which boobey beauties are going to be donning the iconic red suits and running in slow-mo at our local IMAX.

Thankfully for busy, overworked Hollywood producers, ZOO's already got a few sexy suggestions...

These girls can hassle the Hoff whenever they please!

STEPH

Miley Cyrus

Can pull off short hair and still look sexy? Check. Good swimmer? Check. Comfortable wearing tight Lycra swimsuits in public? Check. Miley's got the job!

CJ

Kate Upton

She's the only babe capable of doing Pammy's character justice. Besides, who else has experience of looking hot and running along a beach in slow-mo?

Kelly Brook

If you believe the rumours, then busty Kelly's already been earmarked for the film. A sound choice given she has a body to rival original Baywatch brunette, Yasmine Bleeth's.

Carmen Electra

Who else could play Carmen Electra's lovely Lani other than, well, Carmen Electra!? At 43 she's still stunning and, it seems, can still pull off that red swimsuit!

Daisy Watts

Shauni began as a rookie, so we think ZOO's Daisy fits the bill perfectly. Not only is she ideal for any topless scenes, she has her own costume, too!

Charlotte McKinney

The show's bad girl could only be played by banned-from-TV totty Charlotte McKinney. We'd envy the man who gets saved by her...

HAYEMAKER

David Hays is pulling no punches – only in ZOO

EXCLUSIVE TO ZOO!

COTTO-CANELO IS A CRACKER!

So Miguel Cotto and Canelo Alvarez have finally agreed to fight on 21 November at the Mandalay Bay hotel in Las Vegas. That's the second super-fight this year – and I can't wait for it.

We're starting to see the effects of what Floyd Mayweather Jr's super-fight with Manny Pacquiao has done in opening the doors for these dream match-ups regardless of promoter wrangles, broadcast deals or weight restrictions. The fans want to see the best versus the best and that's what they're getting.

Style-wise for this fight, you've got two guys who love to trade blows and have high knockout ratios, so it's going to be all-out action. It's a real pick 'em fight: Cotto is the older man by birth years and ring wars, but what he might give away in an ageing body to the younger Alvarez, he makes up for in ringcraft and the fact he looks like a new man under Freddie Roach.

This is a Fight Of The Year candidate for sure!

EMAIL YOUR QUESTIONS FOR DAVID TO HAYEMAKER@ZOOTODAY.COM

IN NEED OF A HAYEMAKER THIS WEEK... GRAVESTONE PROPERTY DEVELOPER

I can't believe a millionaire used 150-year-old gravestones with the names and ages of children on to decorate his mansion.

He's in trouble because the house is a Grade II-listed building and he didn't get permission for the renovations – although I suspect his punishment will be nothing compared to the haunting he's unleashed on himself!

Jail bird

Prison guards in Costa Rica caught a carrier pigeon trying to smuggle drugs to inmates.

The pigeon must have really got in with a bad crowd as it was carrying 14g of cocaine and 14g of cannabis in a bag attached to its chest. It's no wonder the recipients are in jail if that's the height of their criminal enterprise!

The problem now for the guards is that every pigeon coming over the wall could be a drug runner, so they'll have their hands full trying to close that drug route!

Da Ya Think I'm Celtic

Legendary crooner Rod Stewart had to pick up a monster bar bill after promising to buy a drink for every Celtic fan who joined him for a swift one after his closing night in Las Vegas – as long as they were wearing their replica shirt.

Being a Celtic fan himself, Rod should have known better: the first thing they would have packed was the club shirt. They will have to start singing, "You'll never drink alone" in the stands now.

ASK DAVID!

Who would win in a scrap between Zayn Malik and Calvin Harris?

DAN BYRNE, via Twitter

Calvin Harris has the height and reach so he would be the bookies' favourite, but Zayn Malik has been on the warpath since he left One Direction so has a puncher's chance just off pure rage. It's not quite Cotto vs Alvarez, but it's another pick 'em fight!

Potty tennis fans

According to Novak Djokovic, someone was smoking weed in the crowd during his Rogers Cup match with Jeremy Chardy in Montreal. It got so bad he complained to the umpire about feeling dizzy.

What a liberty! How someone is able to get weed into a sporting venue and then light up during play is beyond me. But how Djokovic still won the game after getting high from the fumes is one for his opponent to mull over...

Icona Vulcano Titanium

You might remember the Icona Vulcano – a 950bhp hybrid beast with some seriously sharp styling – from the 2013 Shanghai Motor Show. This is the latest version, and it's fashioned from titanium for the ultimate combo: lightweight and strong. It's also powered by the Chevrolet Corvette ZR1's 661bhp 6.2-litre supercharged V8, and its maker claims it's capable of reaching 60mph in 2.8sec, going on to a top speed of 220mph.

0-60mph in
2.8 seconds!

Fisker-Galpin Rocket Speedster

Henrik Fisker – owner of Fisker Automotive and ex-Aston Martin design guru – has teamed up with Galpin Auto Sports to pimp the convertible version of the new Ford Mustang, adding a number of aerodynamic nostrils and fins to ensure it hugs the road when the roof is lowered. The 5.0-litre V8 has also been tuned to produce 715bhp, plus the wheels have grown to 21 inches and the brakes boosted to 15-inch discs to ensure it stops.

Lamborghini Aventador Superveloce Roadster

How do you make the awesome £321,743 Lamborghini Aventador Superveloce even better? You chop the roof off, of course! Only 500 topless stunners will be built and they will all feature a 6.5-litre V12 engine, which develops 740bhp – a whopping 49bhp more than the already insane Aventador. When it goes on sale next year (sporting a price tag of more than £350k) it will be the most stylish way to rearrange your face.

ALSO UNVEILED!

BMW 3.0 CSL Hommage R concept

If the beefed-up M4 opposite doesn't get your man-bits fizzing, this CSL concept ruddy well will. A nod to the 3.0 CSL from the 1970s, it features lightweight tech to shave pounds and improve performance and a helmet that displays information (like speed and revs) on the visor. There's no word on whether this will ever be made, but we think BMW would be mad not to.

BMW Concept M4 GTS

Ignore the word "concept": it's pretty much exactly what the upcoming M4 GTS will look like. The 3.0-litre turbocharged engine has an innovative water injection system, while the bodywork sports a bucketload of racy additions. BMW remain tight-lipped about performance figures, but rest assured it will be far greater than the standard M4's "measly" 425bhp...

Pick me up

I was getting pickets out of the ground when I slipped down a hill into long grass and fell on a sharp one, which tore straight up my leg. I ended up with 58 stitches, 27 staples and a skin graft.

Under pressure

After walking home from the pub, I fell over a pothole and landed on my right arm. Thinking nothing of it, I went home to bed. Little did I know I had compartment syndrome (a build-up of pressure), which caused nerve damage. When I woke up, my hand wouldn't stop twitching until later it seized and I lost feeling in my fingers.

ED HELMS

HI ED! WE LOVED VACATION. DO YOU HAVE A PERSONAL MEMORY OF A BAD FAMILY VACATION YOU HAD EITHER AS AN ADULT OR WHEN YOU WERE A KID?

I have two older siblings and we all took a lot of family vacations. It's hard for me to pinpoint a vacation that was all bad, but there were definitely terrible moments on vacations. When I was about eight, we took one family trip where we flew from Atlanta to Denver and then drove all across the western United States for two weeks in a rented Oldsmobile sedan – all five of us. It's thousands of miles of bleak desert, and we almost killed each other on those drives. My brother and I got so bored we were eating grapes and we put them in the window and tried to make raisins. It didn't work!

TELL US A BIT ABOUT YOUR FAVOURITE SCENE...

So, Rusty and his wife Debbie are visiting Audrey Griswold and she is married to an incredibly hunky cowboy, played by Chris Hemsworth, and his character's name is Stone Crandall. So, we're staying at their house and we're settling down to go to bed, and Stone comes in wearing nothing but very tight underwear. We can see through his underwear that he has an enormous package and we're stunned by this; and he is also weirdly oblivious and arrogant about it, just sort of talking nonchalantly for a few minutes and then leaving. We're left bewildered!

HOW ON EARTH DID YOU KEEP A STRAIGHT FACE?

I didn't. [Laughs.] Thankfully, the camera's on him most of the time. It was so funny, and it's not just funny because of that prosthetic and what it looks like; it's funny because Chris Hemsworth sold it so amazingly. I mean, he just nailed that joke with the arrogance and just walking in with all that attitude. It was amazing!

THAT MUST HAVE BEEN AN ODD PROP TO WORK WITH...

Well, we were all around on set laughing about it and checking it out. I would say we all had a lot of laughs about that.

IN PLAYING THE ADULT RUSTY FOR THE FIRST TIME, DID YOU GO BACK AND LOOK AT THE ORIGINAL NATIONAL LAMPOON FILMS TO TAKE ANY CUES FROM THE ACTORS WHO PLAYED HIM AS A TEENAGER?

I didn't. I watched the old films just for fun and just to get in the spirit of the Griswolds' mythology, but I didn't look for acting cues from Johnny Galecki, Anthony Michael Hall or anyone else. They're great performances but I just felt like adult Rusty's really a different character. I looked at this as a blank slate and an opportunity to just bring Ed Helms to Rusty Griswold – and had a hell of a good time doing it.

NOTTING HILL THE CARNIVAL'S HIDDEN RIOTS

One million partygoers descend on West London this weekend. But not all are there to have fun...

Britain's most iconic street festival draws more than a million revellers to the streets of West London annually. Normally a joyous occasion filled with dancing, music and brilliant food, sadly more often than not areas around Notting Hill descend into a warzone with attempted murders, drug deals and drunken violence spoiling our favourite fiesta.

More than 7,000 police officers are drafted in on a day-by-day basis and the costs run close to £10million – making the event the biggest single deployment of police officers in Europe. With the event becoming synonymous for crime and violence, ZOO talks to the Special Operations team at the Metropolitan Police to see how criminals are laying siege to the Notting Hill Carnival...

Flying in

The bosses of Europe's law-enforcement agency – Europol – announced they have been monitoring known criminal gangs taking advantage of cut-price flights and sending members over to the UK for “crime holidays”, specifically targeting partygoers.

Europol's army of intelligence gatherers have found over 900 cases where gang bosses have given criminal orders for members to make a smash and grab trip to pick-pocket, steal cars and break into houses – before making a quick escape back to the continent with their booty haul.

“Gangs come on ‘crime holidays’”

Gang warfare

Britain's biggest street party is one of the favoured locations for London's homegrown gangs to flex their muscles. They have even taken to the internet to stir up tensions.

“For several years, we’ve conducted pre-carnival operations targeting gang crime that could impact the safety of the Carnival, leading to many arrests which allow us to prohibit them from attending.”

Last year, dawn raids led to the arrest of 149 known troublemakers and the seizure of more than £70,000 in cash, large amounts of drugs and, more worryingly, machine guns. “We also use super recognisers – officers with the ability to remember hundreds of offenders’ faces. They are on the lookout for people who are banned from the event.”

stop-and-search checks have been introduced giving the police the right to stop anyone they suspect of wrongdoing.

Knife attacks

After last year’s festivities, the head of the Metropolitan Police expressed his concern at the high levels of knife crime that marred proceedings. Two of his officers were among those hospitalised with knife wounds, after attempting to apprehend suspects.

Just last year, 11 people were stabbed which included nine in one single fight. Attending officers have said that some victims were centimetres from death, and the Met admit they can often see a crime taking place six feet away, but overcrowding prevents an arrest.

To combat this, blanket

Drug abuse

“The overwhelming majority of people come to have a good time. However, given the large amounts of people who attend, some see it as an opportunity to disrupt affairs and commit crime. Drugs offences are just one of a number of issues.

Last year the police’s intelligence team identified one gang who were raided prior to the festival. They managed to seize 4kg of crack cocaine with a street value of more than £300,000 that was destined for sale on the streets.

Eight suspected dealers were caught and kept away from the party – along with their illicit wares.

THE CARNIVAL’S LESS CRIMINAL PROBLEMS

TOILETS

More than one million people are crammed into 3.5 square miles – but they only have access to 270 toilets between them. If you’re attending, don’t get caught short, as you’re bound to be waiting a while!

WHAT A LOAD OF RUBBISH

Everyone loves a messy party – apart from the poor folk who have the task of cleaning up afterwards. The epic operation involves 170 workers and 60 vehicles cleaning 27 streets of nearly 200 tonnes of rubbish – in less than three hours!

DON’T LOSE YOUR MATES!

You’re going to want to share the UK’s greatest street party with your mates, so don’t let them out of your sight! It only takes one pal to slip away for some jerk chicken and you’ll never find them again as telephone signals are blocked!

DRUNKS

As per every party on Earth, everyone wants to drink their weight in booze. So, you’re likely to spot the odd stranger or two passed out in the corner as the festival drifts past. On average, every person spends £66 each. That’s a hell of a lot of lager to get through...

HOW TO BUY A FOOTBALLERS' HOUSE SECRETS REVEALED

Here's how you can blag your way anonymously into buying a Premier League player's home...

With so many footballers deciding to ditch their clubs and move to pastures new, plenty of mega mansions are being left behind with signed shirts on the walls, ridiculous custom pool tables and even in-house barbers.

With that in mind, ZOO has enlisted the help of an estate agent to the stars to let you into the trade secrets of buying the country's most exclusive properties.

Getting your foot in the door

"Now, they're not going to let just anybody in the front door of a top footballer's home, so you need to come up with a game plan! We'd never entertain someone who strolled into the office and instantly asked about buying the big-named properties – trying out a couple of smaller places is a good start.

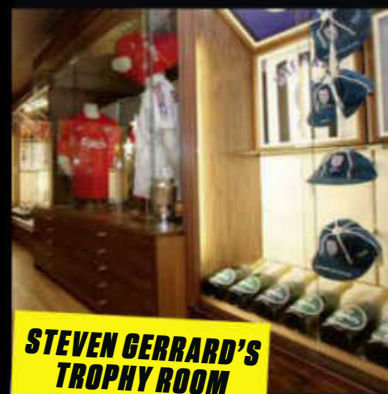

"Once you're actually chatting to the estate agent you need to be cool. And arrogant – act like you've been doing this for years and you may well just get past them. Mentioning your famous mates isn't a good thing."

EMILE HESKEY

PHIL NEVILLE

STEVEN GERRARD'S TROPHY ROOM

PAUL LAMBERT

On the inside

"Most of the same applies here – just keep it cool. You're most likely walking around your idol's home, but you can't just run off and look at his trophy collection.

"And, if they were any good as a player, you'll probably see a few bottles of bubbly. This is not an open house with free Champers, so don't dive into their precious Man Of The Match awards!"

Cutting back

"Raheem Sterling's in-house barbers is actually very handy – just imagine not having to leave your house for a haircut. Unfortunately, the room would be far better used as a bedroom where it would at least add some value to your massive investment!"

"Then again, that's what makes footballers' houses different from ours – they go that extra mile when it comes to making interesting decisions about spending their money."

RAHEEM STERLING

They love tat

"Just looking through these photos you'll see how much personalised rubbish footballers love to collect. Yeah sure it's great to have a pool table in your house, but really with your name on it?"

"If they're making a move abroad they are most likely going to leave this for the potential buyer, but you're better off asking if they'll be leaving you the washing machine and dishwasher – they're far more useful when you move in!"

PHIL NEVILLE

Keep an eye out

"They might be heroes to us, but you've got to remember they are just normal people – so make sure you watch out for the weird things that are swept under the carpet or hidden behind the sofa. I've once seen a whole child's playset hidden behind a sofa – on show it would've made the house look a right mess!"

ANGEL DI MARIA

ANGEL DI MARIA

RAHEEM STERLING

STEPHEN IRELAND

Not very efficient

"Now you've cobbled together enough cash to actually buy your idol's former home, remember they're ruddy expensive to run! Phil Neville's home costs £2,600-a-year in council tax alone and that's forgetting the massive pools, collection of hot tubs and lighting for about 100 rooms."

THE BEST, BIGGEST AND FUNNIEST STORIES FROM THE WORLD OF

The story of United's new No7!

Welcome to

Having announced himself as Manchester United's latest superstar, ZOO reveals the

The ability

If his classy goals and sumptuous assist against Club Brugge in the Champions League last week sent Manchester United fans into a tizzy then they ain't seen nothing yet. One thing that's unquestionable about their new No7 is his talent. He arrived at the club as the top goalscorer under 21 throughout Europe's top five leagues and, in true United No7 fashion, is a set-piece specialist with the seven free-kicks he banged in for PSV last season – more than any other player in Europe. It's ability that's not lost on fellow Dutch great Arjen Robben, who claimed the young star "can become one of the top players in the world at United".

The showman

No shrinking violet, Depay arrived at Manchester Airport after the club's pre-season tour of America kitted out in £10,000 worth of Louis Vuitton accessories. He's featured on Dutch rap group Rotterdam Airlines' song Flexin and even appears in the video. He owns a camouflage car and spent his summer hols frolicking around in Miami with Chris Brown's ex-girlfriend Karrueche Tran. Even his charitable acts don't escape the fanfare. On signing for United, he bought his mum a Mercedes as a thank-you and posted the video of him giving it to her on Facebook.

The name

Memphis plays with his first name emblazoned on the back of his shirt: not for any marketing ploys or Brazilian-style nickname reasons, but to make a very serious statement to his father, Dennis, who walked out on his mother when he was only four and has barely been in touch since. It's still a sensitive part of his life that despite drawing attention to on his strip, he'd rather keep away from football. "Those things are a part of my life. It is not a part of football. It is a different thing. I have a life next to football," Memphis said of the situation.

The troubled childhood

Growing up in a household with his mother and her new man and his kids, the future £25m man's childhood was not a rosy one. He would often turn up to training with the Sparta Rotterdam under-nines in tears. After signing to PSV as a 12-year-old, his behaviour and issues at home had become so bad they

The tattoos

The star is covered in tats – they’re his most-prized possessions. He has the words “dream chaser” across his chest because he says that’s what he’s doing with his career. “I believe I can be one of the best players in the world and I have to dream and believe to achieve.” He marked his grandfather’s passing on his lower arm with the words: “You are far away, you live on in our hearts. I love you.” He put the same on a photograph inside the coffin. He once revealed a temporary tat on the inside of his lip that read “Successful” in Dutch.

The confidence

Memphis raised a few eyebrows when he demanded the No7 shirt at United – but then he’s always believed in himself. His youth coach at PSV, Mart van Duren, revealed they had a job keeping him from arrogance, saying: “Footballers think they are the king at school and Memphis especially. He had his phone out in class and a big mouth against the teachers.” Then there was the time Saints’ boss Ronald Koeman saw him playing for the Dutch under-19 side: “He was walking around like he’d won 10 European Cups. What’s it all about?” The Premier League’s set to find out!

CHALLENGE CUP FINAL PREVIEW!

"We're better as underdogs!"

Hull Kingston Rovers' Aussie points machine Josh Mantellato says the game's liveliest fans will drive them to victory...

HI, JOSH. IT'S HULL KR'S FIRST CHALLENGE

CUP FINAL IN ALMOST 30 YEARS, IS THE CITY BUZZING?

There's a good feeling around the town, especially among Rovers fans. Even Hull FC supporters have wished me all the best because they really want to see the town do well.

HOW DO THE FANS COMPARE TO SOME OF THE MORE LIVELY ONES YOU'VE PLAYED IN FRONT OF IN THE NRL?

Rovers fans are by far the loudest and most vocal. No one in the Super League or the NRL compares with regards to atmosphere at a game. You won't be able to hear the bloke next to you at Wembley on Cup Final day!

YOU'RE COMING IN AS MASSIVE UNDERDOGS. DO YOU PREFER THAT?

We've been underdogs every single Challenge Cup game so far, so it sits well with us. Leeds are used to these big games but hopefully we can put in a great performance on the day and give our fans something to cheer about.

YOU RELEASED A CHARITY VERSION OF ERASURE'S A LITTLE RESPECT AHEAD OF THE FINAL. DID YOU HIT THOSE HIGH NOTES?

Ha ha. I can't hit a high note because my vocal chords are busted from being hit in the throat on the field. Jordan Cox didn't do too badly, but we all had a laugh.

WITH LEEDS PROP JAMIE PEACOCK COMING TO YOU AS HEAD OF FOOTBALL NEXT SEASON, WON'T IT AFFECT YOUR WORKING

RELATIONSHIP IF HE BEATS YOU?

We'll definitely be bitter for the first couple of months, but it's up to us to make him come over mad at us.

YOU'RE FIGHTING FOR YOUR PLACE IN THE SUPER LEAGUE. WOULD YOU RATHER THAT OR THE CHALLENGE CUP?

I'll take both! Leeds are the best team in the competition so we know it's going to be tough but we've got a real exciting and entertaining side that can score lots, so we always have a chance!

"We'll give our fans something to cheer about"

LOUDEST FANS!

"I'm not letting go of the Cup!"

Leeds Rhinos veteran Kevin Sinfield on adding the Challenge Cup to his rugby league swan song

HI, KEVIN. THE CHALLENGE CUP WAS THE ONE TROPHY THAT ELUDED YOU UNTIL LAST SEASON. NOW YOU CAN WIN IT BACK-TO-BACK... I'm hoping so. I've lost in the final a number of times so last year was a big relief. To get the opportunity to lift the trophy again is unbelievable. DO YOU FIND IT EASIER TO WIN THE GRAND FINAL THAN THE CHALLENGE CUP?

Our record in the Challenge Cup is as good as, if not better than, every other club in the Super League over the past 10 years. The problem is the game we usually lose is the final! It's been more difficult to get my hands on that trophy so that's why we know how much we've got to perform on the day.

YOU'VE BEATEN HULL KR TWICE ALREADY THIS SEASON, SO DO YOU HAVE THE BETTER OF THEM?

Not at all. We've had two really tough games and they're capable of beating any top side. They showed that by defeating Warrington and Wigan in their run to the final so they'll be a serious threat and we'll have to be at our very best. It'll make for a great match.

AS ONE OF THE MOST DECORATED PLAYERS, IS IT FAIR TO CALL YOU THE "RYAN GIGGS OF RUGBY LEAGUE"?

I'm not sure, there are other players who've won just as much. I've just been fortunate to play for a great club, in several great teams. YOU'RE SWITCHING TO RUGBY UNION QUITE LATE IN YOUR CAREER. DID SAM BURGESS INSPIRE YOU?

I have huge respect for Sam and having played alongside him and been his captain with England, I know what he's capable of. I've always wanted to do it and I didn't want to leave the sport with regrets, so when the chance came, I couldn't say no.

AS IT'S YOUR LAST RUGBY LEAGUE SEASON, ARE THE CHALLENGE CUP AND SUPER LEAGUE TROPHIES THE ONLY LEAVING PRESENTS YOU'LL BE ACCEPTING?

We're in a great position but we've still got it all to do. These next two months are going to be really exciting. If we're good and fight for everything we can make it a special time for everybody.

Mark Wood chats to ZOO!

“Stokes does my drinking for me!”

The Ashes might be over, but the party is just beginning for the man who bowled the winning ball. Mark Wood tells ZOO why he's on the Fruit Shoots...

HI, MARK. MANY CONGRATULATIONS ON BOWLING THE BALL WHICH RECLAIMED THE ASHES...

Thanks! It's finally begun to sink in now the Test series is over. Taking the winning wicket is something I never thought I'd get a chance to do, so it's been absolutely fantastic. My dad keeps asking what Alastair Cook was saying to me during the celebrations, but I can't remember. He was just shouting at me!

HOW ARE YOU DEALING WITH BECOMING A NATIONAL HERO OVERNIGHT?

My mates back home are constantly taking the mick out of me and telling me to wear smaller shoes to stop bowling no balls. That keeps me grounded. Other than that, the support has been great! YOU MUST HAVE COME CLOSE TO BREAKING YOUR TEETOTAL RULES DURING THE CELEBRATIONS?

No – I was jumping off the walls with the sugar from the Fruit Shoots! That was enough for me. My Durham teammate Ben Stokes usually drinks my quota in exchange for me looking after him after he's had a few.

WHERE DOES YOUR TRADEMARK IMAGINARY HORSE CELEBRATION COME FROM?

At Durham when we played four-day matches, I would bring out the horse and joust with my teammates when things got really boring in the field. It was just a bit of lighthearted fun to make the time pass quicker and keep morale high.

IT EVEN HAS IT'S OWN TWITTER ACCOUNT – @MARKWOODHORSE...

Yeah, I've seen a couple of tweets but I'm not the man behind it. I try to keep away from that to be honest.

WAS THE RACE FOR THE STUMPS AFTER THE FOURTH TEST THE MOST COMPETITIVE YOU'VE SEEN?

Well I wanted one because

I took the winning wicket. Stokes and Stuart Broad were desperate for one as well because of the series' they'd had. It was a really nice gesture for Cookie to give me one.

WE HEARD YOU CAME UP WITH A NEW TEAM SONG?

Ha ha. I was asked to write it by Trevor Bayliss. He must think I'm a lyrical genius or have the best craic. It goes “When we win the series, this is what we'll sing, we are England, super England, Cookie is our king!” It went down well with the rest of the lads and we also sang a special one for Stuart Broad when he was voted Man Of The Match.

SOUNDS LIKE YOU'VE GOT A CHRISTMAS No1...
Oh, it's got to be! From the lyrical genius Mark Wood!

The winning wicket!

JOE ROOT IS OUR NEW FAVOURITE SPORTSMAN. IS HE THE BIGGEST JOKER IN THE DRESSING ROOM?

He's definitely a cheeky chappy, but everyone on the team has good banter and there's a good togetherness throughout the squad at the minute. It certainly helps when people like Joe are putting in the performances he has lately.

THIS ENGLAND TEAM IS SO LIKEABLE, CAN EVEN STUART BROAD START WINNING OVER HIS AUSSIE DETRACTORS?

I don't know if the papers over there are calling him by his name yet, but they've printed his picture so that's a start. He can forget it though if he keeps blowing them away like this summer!

YOU PLAYED WITH STEVE HARMISON AT DURHAM, AND NOW HE'S TURNED HIS HAND TO FOOTBALL MANAGEMENT AT NON-LEAGUE ASHINGTON. HAS HE PERSUADED YOU TO PUT YOUR BOOTS ON?

He's had a few of his England teammates play, like Freddie Flintoff, so I can't be too far away! He's doing a good job there but has a packed midfield, so I won't be getting a chance any time soon.

Alan Shearer has been immortalised in his famous celebratory pose, but the Newcastle United legend looks more like he's got his dancing shoes on than his goal-scoring boots in the new statue, which bears a closer resemblance to South Korean popstar Psy, mid-Gangnam Style dance. I'm sure I've dated her!
